

This Can't Be My Life

Lyrics and Music by Holly Circle
Music by Jimmy Steffen

Flowers to frost, stolen shades of sunshine
Their withered leaves are frozen in the wind
They represent my pain, illustrate my longing
Illuminate the emptiness within

'Cause this can't be my life, or surely you'd be here by now
No this can't be my life, tell me there's been mistake
Or is loving you too much wish to make?

Everything is gray today I cannot make decisions
So I photographed the gloom out in the yard
I thought there'd be no tears after crying all these years
My rocking chair sits idle by the wall

And so the river keeps on flowing wet with love's desiring
Each fear I face with faith's embrace keeps me questioning why

No this can't be my life, or surely you'd be here by now
No this can't be my life, tell me there's been a mistake
Or is loving you and rocking you gently
Is holding you and singing sweet lullabies
Is wanting you, too much, of a wish to make?
